

WINTER SOWING SOCIAL GATHERING
HOSTS: SUSAN HINKLE and DEBORAH BARROW WINTER SOWING RESOURCES

hudsonvalleyseeds.com/blogs/blog/winter-sown-flowers

I recommend Sow in the Snow Boxed Seed Collection (Bloomsdale Spinach, Mother of Pearl Poppy Mix, German Chamomile, Mach, and Butterfly Weed), as well as, Shady Meadow Mix and Eastern Pollinator Mix. My loyal support is based on the range and reliability of the seed offerings and the awesome art in which the seeds come packaged.

davesgarden.com

Informational gardening site with extensive plant and insect indices, 144 membership discussion groups. Check the DG Winter Sowing Forum. I recommend articles by Jill M. Nicolaus (critterologist).

backyardtotable.org

Morton Memorial Library in Rhinecliff, NY, directed by Sandy Bartlett, hosts Backyard to Table speakers and an annual Seed Savers Exchange.

dirtygaia.org (website coming soon)

Meanwhile, you can listen to an interview with founder, Susan Sie, on radiokingston.org. Dirty Gaia: The Multifaceted Good Work of Susan Sie on WKNY FM 107.9, The Good Work Hour

agardenforthehouse.com

Winter Sowing 101 with Kevin Lee Jacobs

Kevin lives in our area. He blogs and videos his gardening and cooking adventures when not writing cookbooks. His projects are all DIY and usually FUN.

awaytogarden.com

Margaret Roach, my mentor, is an avid scientific-minded gardener, a best-selling garden author, a podcaster, NY Times columnist, and public speaker. Her garden is open to visitors for The Garden Conservancy Fall Tours. Margaret is not a winter sower; however, look to her for planting inspiration. If forced to down-size my library and claim but one gardening tome, the keeper would be A Way to Garden: a hands-on primer for every season by Ms Roach.

Please be in touch with questions, comments, and data on your own winter sowing experiences. I appreciate your participation in our gathering, but alas, I could not see you. T'was a hard lesson for me in the meaning of "gallery view". I do look forward to sharing our ideas at future LLI gardening events.

Excelsior, Susan

hinkle@bard.edu

845-758-6475